It's my right to have an education

It's my right to learn, whether that's at school, at home or somewhere else that provides me with an education. My education should focus on growing my talents and abilities, living peacefully, and respecting my environment, my culture and the people around me, including their culture.

If I get in trouble, I should be disciplined in a way that doesn't harm or offend me.

(Art. 16 of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child).
